VIOLENCE EXPLODES ON SAN FRANCISCO STREETS

Anti-Asian tension has been building for the last few months and it has finally exploded—signaling the start of the push against the Sabbat and their allies.

The crucial turning-point was when Marcel Babin, son of one of the most influential crime families in the city, was shot while setting fire to a Chinese laundry. The resulting response from his family left 7 Japanese and 5 Thai immigrants brutally murdered. From there the gang violence spilled out onto the streets.

The nights are no longer safe for even the most cautious citizen as the Anarchs and the Setites and their Mummys take the war right to the doorstep of the Sabbat and their allies. It is too early to tell for sure but it appears the magical backup from the Setites is what was needed to turn the tide against the strange powers of the kindred from the East.

INVESTIGATION INTO POLICE CORRUPTION

Detectives have begun an investigation into alleged police corruption in the Glasgow police force. A spokesman for the police denied that any specific incident of suspected bribery or wilful wrongdoing had prompted the inquiry.

INWARD INVESTMENT OPPORTUNITIES IN GLASGOW

The Glasgow Business Locations Service (BLS) is responsible for the national and international promotion of Glasgow as a business location. The service is run by the Council in partnership with Scottish Enterprise Glasgow (SEG).

Over the last five years the service has attracted nearly 7,000 new jobs into the city in the financial services, software and transaction processing industries, in projects with an investment value of more than £90 million.

Particular priority is being given to promoting the development of Glasgow as an international financial services centre.

The BLS is particularly keen to introduce investment into Glasgow's most deprived areas but has struggled with this particular aim.

Glasgow's 5 most deprived areas are: -

- 1 Keppochhill, Glasgow
- 2 Drumry, Glasgow
- 3 Parkhead, Glasgow
- 4 Hutchesontown, Glasgow
- 5 Bridgeton/Dalmarnock, Glasgow

WINTRY WEATHER 'SET TO IMPROVE'

Scotland was expected to warm up after suffering blizzards and sub-zero temperatures.

Severe weather warnings remained in many parts, but forecasters said the worst was over and emergency services reported no major incidents.

On Friday, the country was whipped by gales and heavy snows which caused a string of accidents and travel chaos. A 20-year-old mother was killed in a one-car road crash in the north-east, in conditions poor with snow and ice.

In the Highlands, heavy snows brought travel misery for motorists and there were numerous reports of lorries and cars becoming stranded in snow drifts.

But despite freezing conditions through the night, with temperatures plunging to -9C in places, forecasters said the country was thawing out on Saturday.

Temperatures rose to around 4C in Glasgow, with rains coming in from the south west, and -1C in Aviemore. Despite continued snowfalls in the Highlands and Aberdeenshire, emergency services reported no major weather-related accidents. But they added roads remained icy, and urged motorists to take care.

There were two road closures due to snow in the Highlands, and one in the north-east.

The country's bridges - many of which had restrictions in place on Friday due to high winds - were operating as normal.

Snowfalls were confined to mountainous areas in the north and forecasters predicted they would peter out in the early hours of Sunday.

The wintry conditions covered Orkney in a white blanket
